Find out more about these incredible women below. But you don't have to launch a beauty empire to enjoy the benefits of creating your own products. Whether you want to become more self-sufficient, craft personalised gifts for loved ones, sell your creations at local markets, or simply learn something new, formulating is a great, empowering skill to have.

Making your own beauty products is not only fun and empowering, it's also easy, and anyone can do it. In fact, you don't need to be a chemist to formulate and we have taught tens of thousands of students how to formulate safe and effective skincare from the comfort of their home.
